A 'must read' for all connoisseurs of fine winesBy Midwest Book Review"Icewine: Extreme Winemaking" by Donald Ziraldo and Karl Kaiser (co-founders of Inniskillin Wines) is an impressively illustrated introduction and explanation of the methods and skills required to successful produce Canada's renowned delicacy called Icewine. "Icewine" provides the reader with a fascinating tour through cool-climate viticulture and Icewine-making. All the complex factors that determine this luxury wine (soil, grape varieties, pressing, cork quality, and climate temperature). Beautiful illustrated Icewine recipes showcasing the velvety smoothness of Icewine created by the resident chef Izabela Kalabis-Sacco round out this amazing tribute and range from Icewine and Thyme Grilled Fig Salad with Gorgonzola and Sherry Vinaigrette, to Vanilla-Infused Icewine Frenched Toast, to Summer Berries with Chilled Icewine Cream. A 'must read' for all connoisseurs of fine wines, "Icewine" is an especially recommended addition to personal and community library Food Wine reference collections.

One of the rarest and costliest of all fine wines, ice wine is notoriously difficult to make, requiring not only specific meteorological conditions but also painstaking skill and craftsmanship. Canada's Inniskillin vineyards produce some of the world's finest ice wines, and from Japan to Europe, the name "Inniskillin" is synonymous with the highest level of luxury goods. In this beautifully illustrated book, Donald Ziraldo leads readers on a personal tour through the amazing world of cool climate viticulture and winemaking. He draws on years of insight and experience to bring to life what is not only an exacting science, but also an expressive art and an earthy celebration of regional territory. The complex factors that determine a fine wine — soil, grape varieties, pressing, cork quality, and the all-important cold climate needed to produce ice wine — are all colorfully presented in this handsome keepsake volume.

About the Author DONALD J.P. ZIRALDO is the co-founder with KARL KAISER of award-winning Inniskillin Wines and pioneered Canada's estate winery movement.
