I was pleasantly surprised with the information included, see list below. I think even experienced juicers might like some of the recipes included, but much of the rest of the information would be too basic.High Level contents of book:- Juicing Basics (including benefits, types of juicers, etc)- Lists of top 10 best fruits and vegetables for juicing- Suggestions for how to store leftover juice and uses for the pulp (including recipes that use pulp)- Lots of Recipes for different purposes: - Weight Loss - Beautiful Skin - Stronger Bones, Hair and Nails - Cleansing and Detox - Energy and Stamina- Hints for creating your own recipes

SchoberI use the recipes in this book daily. I began juicing for the sole purpose of enhancing a poor diet, not because I wanted to lose weight--I was not overweight. Using these recipes has resulted in a weight loss of about 5 to 10 pounds, along with improved skin and hair condition, all of which were completely unanticipated. I feel much, much better after three months of juicing twice a day using the recipes from this book. A couple of caveats: no yields per juicing is given; and, there are a few typos with ingredient portions. I misunderstood "1/2 ginger" on my first juicing to be one half of an entire ginger root. Huge mistake! This should have read 1/2 inch of ginger. I might add that I have been very much into weight lifting for many years and have not experienced any fall off in training poundage used.

They look easy to do, and from the ingredient lists, I can tell they will taste delicious. Only tried a few of them so far, the ones for beautiful skin, and they tasted great. I like how you get separate recipes for skin care, for healthy hair bones, for weight loss, and not just one big chapter full of recipes bundled together. Cons: None yet. But I haven't tried all the recipes yet. If I come across a recipe that just doesn't taste good or doesn't make sense, I'll let you know.

This Is Not Your Ordinary Guide to Juicing! It is everything you need to know to get the most out of your fresh juices and enjoy a healthy, happier, more energized life!
