We used this book in my Sensory Analysis class and there are no page numbers so you have to guess what your supposed to read when assigned material. All of the chapters are in the book but a few of them are missing from the table of contents listing so you have to go to the nearest chapter, then swipe through many, many pages to get to the chapter not listed. It's ridiculous! I saw the print version and it's gorgeous- it has color-coded pages for each topic and page numbers! Amazing!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great Book. Timely Delivery.By JustinCame timely. Brand spanking new. This is a great book and a recommended read for wine industry professionals looking advance.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. however the book was lacking a good editor.By Vincent WilliamsThe service I received was outstanding, however the book was lacking a good editor.

This new and completely updated edition, by one of the wine world's greatest authorities, sets out to teach you that wine, like anything else that gives us pleasure, can be enjoyed more fully by those who have taken the trouble to learn something about it, and who have tried to develop their individual sensory systems. The human sensory system, which includes sight, smell, touch, taste and hearing, can be trained, just as our minds or muscles can be trained. In fact, a high level of assessment skill is within reach of the average wine lover. With the tools given in this book, winer's myriad sensory cues of quality become discernible, and the distinct and deep pleasure of wine accessible.

Brilliant. An underrated book from an Australian who has given an exceptional amount of thought to the process of tasting wine. This classic has remained undiscovered by much of the world wine press. --Robert M. Parker, Jr.The Ultimate Wine Tasting Book. --The Sunday Telegraph, LondonAbout the AuthorAlan Young is the president of the International Wine Academy and a wine consultant. He is the author of 18 books, including Chardonnay and Wine Routes of Argentina. Miguel Torres is a wine maker.
